Arthur Foote was an advocate of both Brahms and Wagner in this country. Active in Boston he was a member of the “Boston Six”. His main output is in chamber music, many works of which are being performed again in the last few years. His lush Romantic style starts this program on a comfortable note!

Juba is a lively dance accompanied by hand clapping. Juba is a dance originating in the culture of African-Americans. I wanted to compose a work which carried the rhythmic, improvisatory nature of American music but maintained the formal flow of Western European music. Juba is in rondo form. The rondo theme contains a rhythmic, foot stomping motive and a melodic motive. From these two themes the music for the episodes between rondo statements is taken. The cellist plays the role of the dancer and the piano plays the role of the on-looker. LL

Ernest Bloch wrote his three suites for Zara Nelsova, the Canadian soloist who also premiered his most famous work for cello “Schelomo”. While the first two are a little in the style of Bach the third suite has its own expressive language.

Muczynski is mainly known for his piano writing. But he wrote some beautiful chamber music also. His writing is rhythmically vivacious and appealing, in the modern idiom while tonal.

Guest Artist Bio

Theresa Bogard is an active performer, combining varied interests in historical performance practice, contemporary music, chamber music, and the music of women composers. She is presently Professor of piano and coordinator of the piano studies as well as Chair od the music program at the University of Wyoming. She studied piano at the Sydney Conservatorium of Music in Australia, the University of Colorado at Boulder, and the Eastman School of Music. In 1988, she received a Fulbright grant to study fortepiano with Stanley Hoogland at the Royal Conservatory of the Hague in The Netherlands, and was a top-prize winner in the international Mozart fortepiano Competition in Bruges, Belgium the following year. Theresa has presented programs of solo and chamber music by women composers in several cities in the United States, Mexico, New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, and China, and is also featured on a compact disk recording of piano works by Louise Talma which was released by CRI records in 1999. As a collaborative pianist she can be heard on the newly released recording for saxophone and piano with saxophonist Scott Turpen entitled “Tableaux” on the Albany Label. In June 2000 she was one of ten international adjudicators for the First Governor’s International Piano Competition in Saratov, Russia, and she has adjudicated numerous regional and national competitions in the US. Since 1996, Dr. Bogard has added traditional Balinese gamelan music to her special interests and has studied gender wayang in Bali, Indonesia.
